SUBJECT: The Korean Situation

I. Military Situation.

Borthern Korean tank-infantry teams are continuing the frontalattack on Taejon but official reports indicate that the city is still held by US troops. The area held by the Southern First Corps to the east of the US position at Taejon has remained relatively additional heavy losses on enemy aircraft caught on the ground.

Enemy forces of at least regimental strength, accompanied by tanks and artillery, have crossed the Kum River west of Taejon and are now in the Iri-Monsan-area, but there is yet no indication whether this force will-move-southward toward Kwangju and the seaport of Mokpo or swing east to flank Teejon. II. Other Developments.

The United Nations Commission on Korce (UNCOK), currently located in the southern port city of Pusan, has decided that under present circumstances the activities of UNCOK observers should be expanded. The Commission agreed that the number of observers should be increased, and that their expanded duties should include the investigation of atrocity stories to prepare factual reports to the UN. Other functions include gathering information from refugees and other sources to provide social and political guidance for the future and duties relating to "the eventual withdrawal" of invading forces.
